Boulderwelt Munich

On July 10, 2010, the world's largest indoor bouldering center opened in Munich, with 1,300 m<sup>2</sup> of climbing space. In this unique project, we were able to contribute our experience from planning and executing climbing gyms. From consultation to realization, we especially also supported the project along its path to official approval.

An explanation: "Bouldering refers to climbing on boulders and rock walls, or in halls with artificial walls and handholds, without a rope or climbing harness. Climbers boulder up to a safe jumping-off height, and thick foam pads cushion their landing – hence our slogan: climbing without fear or criticism."

We are pleased about Boulderwelt's successful opening.
