In this day and age, given the extreme competition on the health-care market, it is no longer enough just to offer outstanding medical care.

Our patients also expect an atmosphere that corresponds to the quality of the medical care on offer. German Haimerl Architekten handled this task with particular sensitivity. The bright, ceiling-height glass walls create a friendly, clear atmosphere without compromising the discretion you need in a medical practice. The subtle but accentuated high-quality materials convey a sense of exclusivity that expresses our strong appreciation for our patients. All in all, it perfectly implemented our wishes and ideas. We happily took part in the development process without any stress, especially since the deadlines and costs were precisely followed.
