Submitted by German Haimerl on 14. December 2018 - 13:19

The network forum BIM - Building Information Modeling met with a very positive response and attracted around 200 participants from Germany, Austria and Italy to Munich. Well-known actors from architecture / planning, construction industry / trade and general contractors / property developers as well as public institutions such as municipalities and authorities as well as research professionals used the forum to exchange information about the latest developments and challenges around BIM and to establish interdisciplinary contacts for upcoming projects. The forum impressed in particular by the high-level lectures and a lively participation of the audience in discussions and the expert question and answer session.
